

Here is the nineteenth installment of our weekly links. Feel free to share your comments and recommend links.

Harron Siddique talks to director Amjod Khazir about his short film 'Combinations', for the Guardian.

Monia Mazigh reviews Katherine Bullock's new book 'Rethinking Muslim Women and the Veil', for Muslim Link.

Alam Shaha reviews BBC Radio 4 documentary 'Islam without God', for the New Humanist Blog.

Wood Turtle argues BBC 3's 'Make Me A Muslim' offers a reductive view of Muslim women.

Jeffrey Alexander speaks at Birkbeck College on multiculturalism, Muslims and modes of incorporation, from Back Door Broadcasting.

